STAT Dear

As I told you in a recent telephone conversation, we are offering a course this Summer AMERICAN FOREIGN POLICY: ON LOCATION IN WASHINGTON, D.C. It is a highly intensive, single issue political science course that will deal with the topic of Technology Transfer. A major component is the On Location segment, featuring a chance for the students to deal with selected individuals, on a face-to-face basis, in both government and non-government organizations, who deal with this question in a policy making context.

The class will consist of from 15 to 20 students and 2 faculty members and will be in Washington from May 29 to June 1 for the class sessions. The students will have had extensive background in such course areas as United States Diplomatic History, International Relations and World Politics, Foreign Policy Making, and American National Government. In addition, they will have a week of classes prior to going to Washington, as well as having read from an extensive bibliography on the topic of foreign trade.

We will be in Washington from Tuesday, April 3 to Friday, April 6 for a preliminary visit to set up the course and would like to meet with you or a person whom you designate to discuss the nature of our needs and what you are able to provide. If it is convenient, we prefer that the meeting take place on Tuesday, April 3 at 2 P.M.; please notify us whether this is acceptable to you or not.

Although you are not able to schedule our group with the CIA at this time, we hope you will still be able to meet with us so that we may discuss the course, as well as reinstituting our previous relationship for the future.

We are in the process of arranging sessions at the White House, several executive departments, Capitol Hill, as well as a number of non-governmental organizations.

Enclosed is a flyer describing the general nature of the course. We hope that you will be able to assist us in preparing the way for the course in May by meeting with us in early April. We believe that the success of this course is dependent upon getting a broad range of views on the topic of Technology Transfer, and would greatly appreciate your assistance.

If you need any further information, or if I may be of help to you in any way, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,

Charles R. Salamone
Associate Professor,
History and Political Science
